3. Use what you know to describe a character

Welcome to witches dotcom! Today's topic is 'Jadis, the White Witch'. The White Witch, you know that name!

Once upon a time, there was an extremely powerful witch called Jadis. She wasn't a good witch. She didn't have any feelings. She used her powers to conquer the throne of Narnia and plunged the land into perpetual winter. Her greatest weapon was her wand – with it, she turned people into stone. She had other powers too: she disintegrated objects and individuals, controlled the minds of animals...

She was an extraordinarily beautiful and imposing woman. She was seven feet tall. She was very intelligent – she used other people and demolished all obstacles in her way.

So, let's try to find out more about this fascinating character...
